

Diversity Report- 2010
Communication Studies

Dr. Dunn provided names of potential speakers to the campus pastor's office and to the liberal arts institute in an effort to bring more ethnic and gender diversity to campus.

Dr. Ochieng spoke to graduate students of color (two from University of Michigan, one from Bowling Green State University, and one at Texas Tech.) and encouraged them to consider applying for positions at liberal arts colleges such as Westmont College. He also is in correspondence with a professor at USC to see if he can visit campus to give a talk.

The department needed a couple adjunct for the Fall to fill in for Dr. Dunn while she is on sabbatical. One of the adjuncts is Chinese-American (Courtney Wong Davis) and the other is Filipino-American (David San Jose).