Attendance Policies

One of the distinctive features of Westmont College is its residential nature: as members of this community, we recognize that learning and personal growth occur in community. Attendance at regular class meetings is an important manifestation of this commitment, and the following attendance policies are intended to encourage attendance while recognizing special circumstances and the rights of students and faculty.

Students are responsible for all course work and activities missed while absent and must consult the faculty member to make arrangements for make-up work.

Faculty shall establish their own attendance policies for courses taught by them, subject to the following limitations:

1. Faculty must announce their attendance policies and their policies for make-up work in relation to absences at the beginning of a course. Any change in policy during the course must be made clear to the students and shall not be retroactive.
2. As a minimum, a student shall be allowed without penalty (beyond the loss of credit for missed or late work) at least as many absences per semester as the number of times the class meets per week.
3. Students should not be penalized (beyond the loss of credit for missed or late work) for absences due to illness or for official school activities (such as varsity athletic events and official class trips field trips). However, such absences are included in the count of un-penalized absences in point 2.
4. Faculty members are not permitted to provide make-up opportunities or alter established class schedules for suspended students. Where this creates hardship for students they are to be referred to the Dean of Students.
5. When a student persistently neglects class assignments or has excessive absences, the faculty member may request the student withdraw from the class or may notify the student that he or she has been terminated with a grade of F in that particular class. A student may not be dropped from a course for missing classes unless the number of absences exceeds twice the number of times the class meets per week. The faculty member is not obligated to give an F to the student with excessive absences. Instead, the faculty member may assign a grade of W through the 9th week of the semester.
