GRADES

A. DEFINITION OF LETTER GRADES

The following describes the level of performance for each letter grade designation. Grades may be modified by plus (+) or minus (-).

A grade of A indicates exceptional scholastic performance, as follows:

1. A meeting of the stated requirements for the course in preparation, outside reading, and class participation.
2. Distinctive understanding of course material by presenting evidence of ability to analyze critically and synthesize creatively.
3. Sound techniques of scholarship in all projects.
4. Creativity, imagination, sound judgment, and intellectual curiosity in relating the course material to other areas of intellectual investigation.

A grade of B indicates superior scholastic performance, as follows:

1. A meeting of the stated requirements for the course in preparation, outside reading, and class participation.
2. Better than average understanding of course material by presenting evidence of ability to produce significant generalizations and draw valid implications.
3. Understanding of techniques of scholarship in all projects.
4. Sustained interest and exhibition of the ability to communicate the ideas and concepts which are part of the subject matter of the course.

A grade of C indicates good scholastic performance, as follows:

1. A meeting of the stated requirements for the course in preparation, outside reading, and class participation.
2. Show satisfactory understanding of course material as shown in committing few errors in fact and judgment when discussing the material.
3. Indication of some competence in the techniques of scholarship.
4. Exhibition of interest in the subject matter, and of capacity in understanding the concepts and ideas which are part of the subject matter of the course.

A grade of D indicates poor scholastic performance, as follows:
OLD GRADE DEFINITIONS

1. A meeting of the stated requirements for the course in preparation, outside reading, and class participation.
2. Inferior understanding of course material as evidenced by inability to recapitulate facts or make sound judgments.
3. Only occasional use of techniques of scholarship.
4. Minimal interest in the subject matter, but knowledge of the essential concepts and ideas that are a part of the subject material of the course.

A grade of F, when assigned by the instructor, indicates unacceptable scholastic performance, as follows:

1. Negligence of the standards and requirements of the course.
2. Inadequate understanding of the course material as shown in an excessive number of errors in fact and judgment when discussing the material.
3. Inability to use sound techniques of scholarship.
4. Inability to comprehend the concepts and ideas which are part of the subject matter of the course.

Since these are general guidelines, the individual instructor should make an effort to define in the syllabus the standards as they apply to the course being conducted. It might be also stressed that many innovative techniques are available as alternatives to the most common method of evaluation (self-evaluation, class evaluation, project, etc.).
